Datasheet

Medical humidifiers are used to add vapor water to therapeutic gases given to patients. The gases available for medical use, in fact, do not contain enough moisture and can damage or irritate the respiratory tract or dry the secretions of patients. Among the humidifiers, the bubbling ones are certainly the most used in the hospital. They consist of a vessel that is partially filled with water and in which the oxygen to be administered to the patient is bubbled. DZ Medica since its foundation, realise a wide range of Medical humidifiers to which have been added in recent years disposable humidifiers (Oxyone model).

The range of our humidifiers is divided in three main groups: reusable humidifier in polycarbonate, reusable humidifier with metallic cap, disposable humidifier (Oxyone). All the models are available with G 1/4" or 9/16" inlet. Also in the reusable humidifier in polycarbonate, and in the reusable humidifier with metallic cap, the inlet and the main parts are metallic, to ensure durability and strength. Both the reusable humidifier in polycarbonate, and in the reusable humidifier with metallic cap can be equipped with metallic over pressure valve, that in case at 0.8 bar purge the pressure in case of accidental obstruction of the exit of the device.

The geometrical characteristics of our humidifiers ensure a high range of humidity, in each flow and the material used ensure a long life of the medical device.
